A REPUBLICAN exchange very knowing ones that the great demo-situation are appreciated. cratic victory is not the result of great democratic gains but of republican indifference." This is all very well to be talked about, but the truth is no such defeat was expected. It is true the masses of republicans were disgusted with their leaders, and perhaps a good many remained at home; but the whole truth is the republicans are in the minority. The honest people, those who have become tired of misrule and extravagant expenditures, concluded that a change would be an improvewere disgusted with their leaders, ment, and if they voted at all they deposited their ballots for democrats. The republican party has been corrupt, and the people knew it. That knowledge accounts for the sweeping change that has been made. The democrats now are masters of the situation. If they will use wisely and well the power that has been placed in their hands, their supremacy will be perpetual:

THE COMMISSIONER of Pensions, in his anual report, refers to the possibility of having to pay pensions to 1,000,000 more ex-soldiers. As the election has gone by and the republicans in the present congress have nothing to gain by any reckless expenditures it is not likely, that the commissioner's fears will be verified.

JUDGE FOLGER finds a crumb of comfort in the belief that the democrats in the New York legislature will so re-district the state as to shut out many republicans who went back on him. The Judge may be correct in his estimate of the democrats, and if so, the latter will only play back on the republicans the game that was played by the radicals when they were in power. If the democrats do not district the state in a way to have a majority vote they will be childish.

IN ANOTHER part of THE HERALD this morning will be found an editorial article from our Omaha namesake. We do not believe that the Omaha Herald is authorized to speak for Mr. Caine or his beliefs; indeed, his belief is something that the Herald has nothing to do with. His conduct is all that concerns the Herald or anybody. So long as he is a square, upright man in his actions, wisely suggests the elections show the people will be pleased to honor a general demoralization of the re- him as he does them. actually proceeded further than the law under which they acted warranted thom in doing; and still no fault was found. The registration came on, and people accepted without complaint the rules that had been adopted, though the general belief was that the Commission had assumed powers to which they were not entitled. When the election came there was still no complaint. We have yet to hear of the first attempt at transdulent voting, or of an attempt to deposit an illegal ballot. The voting was regular and the canvass in strict accord with the orders of the Commission. NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE CENTURY FOR NOVEM-ber is called by the N. Y. Ob-server, "A Sumptuous Number." The Springfield Republican says: "The magazine is at its best,—the best, by far, of the month's pro-duct." It contains the opening chapters of Dr. Eggleston's original and entertaining history of the and entertaining history of the United States, entitled "The Beginnings of a Nation," and the first of Washington Gladden's papers on Christian Co-operation, which is at-tracting wide attention among business men interested in Christian work. The Independent says this series "gives promise of proving a thoroughly interesting and sugges-tive contribution." There is, also, tive contribution." There is, also, the beginning of a charming love-story of mining-life, by Mary Hal-lock Foote, etc., etc. Send 85 cents for this number to the nearest newsdealer or to THE CENTURY CO., NEW YORK
